Emergency March of Dimes Drive Planned for August

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is faced today with the most critical financial crisis of its 16-year history it was announced at Richmond this week.

The Richmond offices of the National Foundation announced that several Virginia counties March of Dimes funds are exhausted and the chapters have been receiving funds from National Headquarters for several months. "The National Epidemic Aid Fund is now used up," it was stated. The spokesman for the March of Dimes organization went on to explain that recent advances to Prince George and Hanover counties had to be cut by 50 percent because of lack of funds, and that several other requests were being held up until after the Emergency March of Dimes campaign to be held during the last two weeks in August.

Across the Nation the picture was the same: chapters broke and hospital bills piling up. The January March of Dimes, while the greatest in history, just wasn't enough to finance the gamma globulin and trial vaccine program of Polio Prevention and at the same time provide the needed care for the mounting roster of patients.

While Virginia is blessed with considerably less polio than last year, patients from last year and the years before are still being cared for with March of Dimes funds. One patient alone has cost a Virginia chapter more than $35,000.00, and there are no Virginia chapters that are not providing treatment for some victims of the disease. Cases being cared for by Virginia chapters vary from 1 to 50.

Through July 24th, 17 chapters in Virginia have received a total of $62,904.06 from the National Epidemic Aid Fund.

These include Bath, 0200; Botetourt, $2,500; Buchanan, $6,000; Dickenson, $2,000; Fairfax, $12,000; Franklin, $300; Hanover, $700;; Isle of Wight, $1,600.53; Loudoun, $10,000; Pittsylvania, $4,053.53; Prince 000George, $1,600; Nansemond, $1,500; Smythe, $500; Tazewell, $2,750; Washington, $8,900; Wise $3,300; and Wyth, $5,000. The total for these counties comes to $62,904.06

At least 75 percent of Virginia chapters would be out of funds before the polio season is passed of an emergency campaign had not been decided upon.

An example of how the March of Dimes funds are distributed as shown by the Comptrolling Department of the National Foundation is shown in the following figures, showing the percentage distribution of funds in 19 counties in the years from 1938 through 1953:

LIME, FERTILIZER ADVISED FOR NEW PASTURE SEEDINGS

Enough lime and fertilizer to get young pasture seedings off to a good start are advised by John F. Shoulders, associate agronomist at VPI.

It isn't long until seeding time in northern Piedmont and west of the Blue Ridge—anytime after the first good rain in August up until September 15.

Shoulders says to have your soil tested and if lime is needed, apply enough to bring the pH to between 6.0 and 6.5. Disc the lime in the soil to a depth of 4 to 5 inches to encourage deeper root development.

New seedings of pasture should receive from 600 to 1,000 pounds of a complete fertilizer, such as 2-12-12 or 5-10-10, depending on the mixture to be seeded and the present level of plant food in the soil. The soil test will indicate whether plant food is low, medium or high.

On poor soils, a ladino clover-tall grass pasture seeding should receive 1,000 pounds per acre of a 5-10-10. If the soil is low in phosphorus, an additional 400 to 800 pounds of 20% superphosphate will be profitable. However, if the fertility level of the soil is high, 600 pounds of 2-12-12 per acre will probably be enough.

If the mixture used contains legumes such as lespedeza or white Dutch clover, fertilizer such as 4-16-8 or 4-12-8 may be used at the rate of from 600 to 1,000 pounds per acre.

The most thorough job of mixing fertilizer deeply into the soil to encourage deep penetration of roots can be done before seeding. Therefore, heavier applications of phosphorus and potash are particularly profitable at seeding, because deep placement of these plant foods encourages longer lasting and more productive stands.

New seedings need enough nitrogen to provide rapid initial growth, even though legumes are included in the mixture. The nitrogen provided by a complete fertilizer takes the place of the nitrogen that will be fixed from the atmosphere after the legumes have become well-established.

News Around Town

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

Entering the darkened living room, the mother could barely make out the figure of her son sitting with a book open on his knee and one arm around his cat.

"You can't possibly read in the dark," she said. "I'll put on the light."

"No," said the boy. "it's all right. Toby can see in the dark and I'm just turning the pages for him."

—Christian Science Monitor

I had an occasion to visit Mrs. S. E. Anderson recently . . . hadn't been there for quite a number of years . . . matter of fact I used to teach at Stonewall many years ago . . . but what I started out to say was Mrs. Anderson showed me over her lovely flower garden and gave me a beautiful gardenia. Wish I had more times to visit my friends.

Like wrestling? Then you have a chance to see the famed Baron Michele Leone, holder of the World's Junior Heavyweight championship, go against Freddie Blassie, the Southern Heavyweight champion in a match at the Lynchburg City Armory tonight. I always watch the paper to see when the Barron will be on TV, as he is one of my favorite wrestlers.

Who knows anything about tulips? We have ordered a mess of tulip bulbs. They will be coming in in a few weeks, and we don't know the rules for setting them out. Next morning we attended to business and prepared to leave after noon. Wanted to get home in time to get in a few hours on the garage Saturday afternoon, but by the time the garage could rest assured, He called a mechanic. Fellow was to go off duty in 15 minutes . . . all mechanics were busy . . . and no service men available until Monday morning. So went to work on our own car, to have a part. The only part we got the part was at the other end of town, and they closed at noon. He made a speed run and managed to get the part. We got there a few moments after 1:00 P. M. and the man said we were lucky we had been half an hour late we would have had to wait until Monday morning. Maybe we were lucky at that, but my opinion of service ought to be available whenever the public needs it. But worse, was the case of a couple of fine folks from Illinois, on their way who were involved in an automobile accident which was not their fault. But they had to be detained maybe for several days to allow things settled, and their vacation ruined. In life, you must take the breaks, and must admit that some of them are pretty hard to flow against you.

BOYS CAMP AT LAKE ADJOURNED SATURDAY

Charlottesville, August 3.- The ninth annual Boys' Forestry Camp was held during the week of July 26, through July 31. State Forester George W. Dean mentioned that 96 boys attended camp this year and will carry back to their community a wealth of knowledge learned from the forestry courses taught at the camp.

The camp is held each year at Holliday Lake, located in the Buckingham - Appomattox State Forest. Ninety-six scholarships were awarded to boys judged the most deserving from the standpoint of activity and interest shown in sound forest conservation methods. At the end of the camp week the boys were given a series of tests on what they had learned. James Kent, of Spotsylvania County came away with the best grades on the tests, with Dabney Overton, of Richmond County and Billy Saunders, of Halifax County as second and third best. The instructors and counsellors select three boys who display the most leadership, initiative, interest and who also make a good showing on their test papers as the best campers. This year Paul Sykes, of Norfolk County won the best camper award, with Jack Harrington, of Cumberland County and Dabney Overton, of Richmond County as runners up.

Trained professional foresters and a game manager handled the instruction at the camp, which included such courses as Forest Fire Control, Cruising, Marking and Estimating Timber, Area Surveying, Tree Planting, Tree Identification, Game Management, and Timber Harvesting and Processing.

The other sales are set for September 22, Charlottesville; September 23, Culpeper; September 24, Staunton; September 27, Independence; September 28, Christiansburg; September 29, Buena Vista, and October 30, Lynchburg.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Veterans have repaid in full 684,623 GI loans for homes, farms and business totalling more than $3 billion in the past decade of the GI loan program, Veterans Administration announced.

The 684,623 loan repaid as of June 25, 1954, represents nearly 19 per cent of the 3,632,518 loans made totalling $23.9 billion.

This high rate of repayment is matched by the low rate of claims VA has paid on foreclosed loans. . 32,574, or less than one per cent, of the total number of loans made.

To date, the Government has suffered an out-of-pocket loss of only $27 million and that amount is subject to substantial further recoveries either by sale of acquired security or from veterans themselves.

Although the majority of the loans repaid are for homes, more business loans have been paid off percentagewise.

More than 135,714 business loans, or 63 per cent of the 214,544 loans made, have been paid back in full.

Total amount of the business loans repaid is more than $332.9 million out of $577.7 million borrowed by veterans.

Of the 214,544 business loans made, VA has paid claims on 11,643, or only 5.4 per cent. The current loss before further recoveries is $9.4 million.

Fifteen per cent, or 512,090 of the 3,351,663 home loans made since 1944 have been repaid in full.

Money-wise, nearly $2.7 billion has been repaid out of $23.1 billion borrowed. GI home loans are usually written with 15 to 30-year terms.

Claims paid by VA on foreclosed home loans amount to only 18,886 or approximately one half of one per cent of the loans made. Current loss to VA before further recoveries is $16.3 million.

As for farm loans, veteran-farmers have repaid 36,819 loans totalling $108 million out of 66,331 farm loans totalling $297 million that have been closed since 1944.

VA has had to make good on only 2,045 foreclosed farm loans and the current loss before further recovery is $1,470,000.
